Q1

Please share any comments, suggestions or concerns you may have about these agencies, including any observations about the way the agency shares information online. Please note your responses will be posted online and may be included in a Committee report.

Health & Human Services, Department of

When I moved to South Carolina, I heard the rumors about the "good ole boys club." And coming to this agency it definitely has proven true--when they placed Joshua D. Baker as agency head. First his rise in the ranks was laughable and a well-played game checkers. But, not really. Everyone saw it. The "process" to seek a new agency head was disgraceful--at best. And a part from his inability to lead, stubbornness, short fuse, and bullying and belittling temperament--what's most despicable is his objectification of women in the workplace and serial misconduct. And every one knows and sees it. What' more---he was most heavy on this during the height of the ME TOO Movement. He constantly undressed women in the workplace with his eyes, commented about their looks, and--for a period of time--hired based on looks. It didn't matter if you were agency personnel or a visitor to the agency. Every one was fair game. It was shameful and disgusting. I have never worked somewhere where someone was so blatantly open about it---and I am on my second career. No one would say or do anything to report it because everyone was scared for their jobs. And you watched as the male deputies supported him in his statements. THIS IS AN UNHEALTHY AND UNSAFE WORK ENVIRONMENT. Heck, look at the bogus training department he created. The individual over that--known for her looks and really short skirts--has had 4 or 5 positions in a year. I would never send my daughters to work at that agency. And this is who you have leading the state and have placed Medicare recipients in the hands of. I give you the benefit of the doubt, because I know people have been scared to talk or report things for the years Joshua has been in office. But I also know it is a large enough agency. People talk. And so does Joshua. You have to know. Henry has to know.
